EDELWEISS The Weekly Greeting
Monday, July 17, 2023

Welcome to the first Edelweiss Weekly Greeting!

Based on your feedback, we've redesigned our weekly newsletter to make it easier to see what's new on the site each week. We focused on reducing the "noise" of the old email; you will now find highlights by genre (Adult Nonfiction, Fiction, and Children's) and can click in to see even more new titles and catalogs on the site. Plus, we added sections to showcase the titles releasing this week.

We'd love your feedback! Let us know your thoughts on these changes (and ideas on how we can make the Weekly Greeting better!) by clicking here.

Spotlight on Alice Rothchild

Alice Rothchild loves storytelling that pushes boundaries and engages us in unexpected conversations. She is the author of a young adult novel, Finding Melody Sullivan, and the forthcoming juvenile novel Old Enough to Know. She has written and lectured widely on Israel/Palestine, and directed a documentary film, Voices Across the Divide. She is a mentor for We Are Not Numbers, a program that supports young writers in Gaza. Alice, a retired OB/GYN, received Boston Magazine's Best of Boston's Women Doctors Award, was named in Feminists Who Changed America 1963-1975, and was named a Peace Pioneer by the American Jewish Peace Archive. When she is not making good trouble, she loves hiking in the Pacific Northwest, playing with her grandchildren, tending to her boisterous garden, and stretching the boundaries of her cooking.
